John A. Stewart

John was raised in a non-Christian home near Winnipeg, Canada. He played professional hockey for eight years before becoming a Christian. After retiring from hockey, he graduated from seminary in 1988 and served as a pastor and church planter for 16 years.

John currently serves as the Executive Director of Lamplighters International, a ministry that helps churches be more intentional about making disciples of Jesus Christ. He speaks nationally in Bible conferences and churches on the topics of discipleship and evangelism. In addition to his speaking, he is the author of the popular Lamplighters Bible Study series (23 study books).
